

SUMMARY OF NEW CONCLUSIONS OF PH.D. THESIS

1. Thesis's title: The Social Reform Ideology of the Phong Hoa, Ngay Nay newspapers

2. Speciality: Journalism

Code: 9320101

3. PhD Student: NGO VAN PHONG

4. Thesis Advisors:

Thesis Advisor 1: Associate Professor, Dr. Nguyen Ngoc Oanh

Thesis Advisor 2: Associate Professor, Dr. Ngo Van Gia

5. Training Facility: Institute of Journalism – Communication, Academy of Journalism and communication

6. The new results of the doctoral thesis:

Firstly: The thesis has systematized common logical issues such as concepts, theories related to it, characteristics and factors affecting the social reform thinking of the Phong Hoa, Ngay Nay newspapers.

Secondly: The thesis has systematically compiled, surveyed and analyzed the ideas of social reform in Phong Hoa, Ngay Nay newspapers on both content and form, as expressed through: rural reform ideology; lifestyle reform ideology; human liberation ideology; progressive women's ideology. These are advanced ideas aimed at changing contemporary society, eliminating outdated, backward, and obsolete thoughts, and striving for a modern cultural way of life that is consistent with the development of global civilization.

Thirdly: The Thesis has comprehensively evaluated both contributions and historical limitations of the Phong Hoa, Ngay Nay newspapers in the early 20th century's social reform thinking in Vietnam, thereby drawing some lessons from journalism and historical significance for contemporary society.

Hanoi city, February 25th 2025

Advisor 1

Advisor 2

PhD Student

Assoc,Pro,Dr. Nguyen Ngoc Oanh

Assoc,Pro,Dr. Ngo Van Gia

Ngo Van Phong